The elementary school aims at promoting a life-long inquiry based learning process and consolidating the understanding skills. A child will:

- Learn to explore the world with curiosity, asking questions and developing skills in problem solving and interpretation.
- Continue to develop a range of social skills, in the classroom, in the playground, on the sports field.
- · Field trips/extra-curricular activities make their learning fun.

In this modern era of upto-neck competition, the need of a paradigm from traditional ways of schooling has become inevitable to empower the child to come out with flying colors in all real tests of life. Individual attention in the heterogenous stuff is the need of the hour. Practical learning plays vital role and the teacher is no more "A Sage on the Stage". He must act as "A Guide on the Side".
